ENTHUSIASM STILL GREAT

Gloomy Weather No Bar to Active Canvassing by the Committees.

Although yesterday was gray and unpromising on the outside, there was constant brightness and good news within the Young Men's Christian Association headquarters, in the Shafer Building. The weather seemed no bar to the active canvassing of the Young Business Men's whose reports add another to their total.

500 to their total. The announcement of $5,000 from Mr. C. Williams was greeted with proged cheering. The bequest of the late W. Wood, together with several other real subscriptions, was very encouring to the active workers, and the independent of the great clock at Tenth and in now stand very close to the $75,000 rk. The subscriptions of $1,000 and ar received up to last night are as lows:

was not as large as the day before ut the gathering was quite as enthusias tic Mr. Joseph Bryan, chairman of the citizens' committee, made a brief and stirring address. As has been the custom before, a goblet was passed down the table, and those present "chipped in" the cost of the lunch. This feature makes all those who are interested in the campaign feel entirely free to drop in at those noenday luncheons and spend the time in discussing the features of the work and hearing the encouraging reports.

Small Cost of Carmaion. Mr. Joseph Bryan, chairman of the Small Cost of Campaign.

Small Cost of Campaign.

The contribution also considerably reduces the cost of the campaign, which Mr. Ward now estimates will not be one per cent, of the amount collected. This remarkably low figure could not have been realized but for the fact that the government let the committee have its head-quarters without charge, except for light and heat. Although it has been repeatedly announced that the salary of Mr. Ward is provided by the International Y. M. C. A., there are still inquiries with regard to his position with reference to the campaign. It can be positively stated that Mr. Ward has no pecuniary interest in the outcome; no commission on the results, whatever they may be, and that his work is without cost to the Richmond association.

The changes in the positions of the yarfous teams of young men was a source of great interest. They are published above in the order of their standing last out for all appointees of the Governor.

Mr. C. J. Billups and Mr. R. S. Tuck retain first and second places, respective. If the best showing of the day was made by Mr. S. W. Meek, whose team turned in $1.345, and lumped from next to bottom of the list to third place. Mr. McGuire goes ahead of Mr. Gordon, while Mr. Dake drops down one place.

The committee now have three-eighths of the amount required, and feel that with energy and perseverance thoy will succeed in relling up the $30,000 by the last day of the month, if not before, However, every member of the two committees realizes that it is going to be an uphill fight, and that they can win out only with the liberal co-operation of the business interests of the city. The executive committee having charge of the campaign are beginning to look for more of the bigger subscriptions, as these are essential to guarantee the success of the movement. They are very handsome spectmens of the lithographer's art, and are an improvement over any ever issued.

In addition to his versatile talents and capabilities, Mr. Eagleston has developed decided artistic ideas which he has impressed in the new seals of the State. The new commissions bear the more familiar lesser seal of the Commonwealth with its motto. "Sie Semper Tryrannis," but they also bear the greater Seal, which is more rarely seen. The greater seal, which is more rarely seen. The greater seal, with its three allegorical figures and the motto. "Perseverando," appears alongside the obverse or lesser seal. Mr. Eggleston's artistic eye dejected the fact that in the old seal the figures of the woman with her foot upon the neck of the dethroned tyrant was more like a male than a female, and proceeded to correct this artistic monstresity. As a result of his instructions to the lithographer the figure on the seal is now distinctively that of a woman.

The first use made of the new lithographed commissions was in commissioning the members of the Jamestown Mineral and Timber Association, which is preparing to instal a great exhibit at the Jamestown Exposition.

Then came the ancestors and immediate family of Scott, with a picture of the great novelist himself.

Views of his birthplace, his early home with his grandfather on the banks of the Tweed, his daily haunts among the picturesque hills and ruins around his home, were shown with great distinctness and beauty, the lecturer pointing out the spots hallowed by association, and relating interesting incidents in the life of the great poet and novelist.

Abbotsford, the home of his dreams, was seen from all positions, and beautiful views of the interior, with the furniture used in Scott's time, brought out with great vividness the details of his daily life.
